ARCHITECTURAL DETAIL

The Richard Bradshaw Amphitheatre was designed to accommodate performances and provides a modern take on the traditional amphitheatre. The main space of the amphitheatre is open to the fourth floor and is overlooked by the ascending bench-style seating, as well as the walkway above. The space is naturally flooded by the wall of windows along the west side of the Isadore and Rosalie Sharp City Room. Exterior blinds can be used to dim the natural lighting, however a full blackout cannot be achieved. The Richard Bradshaw Amphitheatre is an open space part of the Isadore and Rosalie Sharp City Room. Although open in nature, the architectural details of the amphitheatre allow for extraordinary acoustics for any performance or gathering.
